

CALL FOR PAPERS

Dear Colleagues,

impressive advances in pharmacology, drug discovery and clinical sciences occurred during the past 15 years, contributing more to the progress of medicine than any other scientific factor.

A paradigm shift is taking place also in pharmaceutical research, moving from a closed and isolated process to a new open model: innovation is more and more generated through international networks, where skills and excellence seemingly distant from each other can meet. Industry-academic research partnerships have indeed become a new R&D model for gaining access to cutting-edge science and new technologies.

This scenario demands new tools to promote, stimulate and support the international research network on pharmacological fields

From September 2019 PharmAdvances has started its online publication

PharmAdvances is an international e-Journal of the Italian Society of Pharmacology (SIF), published by Edra. The Journal aims to expand the horizon of this scientific discipline and to encourage high-quality international research and is devoted to an international audience of pharmacologists and clinicians.

PharmAdvances publishes rigorously peer-reviewed manuscripts providing broad coverage of all aspects of pharmacology, across themed sections:

- Preclinical pharmacology
- Clinical pharmacology
- Drug Discovery
- Ethics

We would like to encourage you all to submit your papers to the Journal

The Journal accept Research Articles, Opinion Paper, Review and Poster (Post-it in Pharmacology).

All papers will be subject to normal peer review by an international forum of independent experts. We strive to provide our Authors with quick turnaround and publication time.

Please visit the page Guide for Authors to consult the full authors guidelines and contact the Editorial Office for all the information you may need to complete your manuscript submission:

editorialoffice@pharmadvances.com

This is an open invitation and we would be gratified if you would share this information with your colleagues and friends.

We thank you in advance for your attention and look forward to hosting your paper on PharmAdvances.